

4,788 Sample Bottles of His
Guaranteed Rheumatism
Cure Given Away Yesterday from the Times-Dispatch.

His Honest Efforts to Prove the Efficacy of His Remedy Should Meet With Public Support.

Distribution All Day and Evening.

To-day Prof. Munyon will continue the free distribution of his Rheumatism Remedy, requesting the newspapers of the city to investigate and publish the results in each case as reported to them, either good or bad. In this way Prof. Munyon proposed to prove the efficacy of his Rheumatism Remedy before asking the public to spend one cent. Never before in the history of medicine has there been a physician or company who have dared to risk their reputation in an actual test of the remedies by the people. Such unbounded faith in the virtue of their medicine as shown by the Munyon Company at once gave the public confidence in it, and the result has been this: Yesterday 4,788 sample bottles were given away, and afflicted persons are testing the value of the cure. No doubt thousands who have given up all hope of being relieved will be tempted to try this and other remedies, just as effective, manufactured by the Munyon Company.

During the past ten years Prof. Munyon has given away millions of bottles of his cures from leading dailies all over the country. What a contrast between this honest method of proving the virtue of his remedies and others who promise so much, but always ask the patient for money in advance! Prof. Munyon does not expect you to put any faith in his medicine until thousands have tested their merits. He does not bring testimonials from other places thousands of miles away, but obtains them in your own city in a manner which prevents any possible chances of deceit or unbelief.

If you are afflicted with any disease, ask your druggist for a Munyon cure.

GREAT LAWYER WHO IS DEFENDING HARRY THAW

DELMAS OUTDOORS AND SOME OF HIS CHARACTERISTIC POSES IN THE COURT-ROOM.

These pictures show clearly the grim determination in the countenance of the "California Napoleon," as D. M. Delmas has been dubbed, because of his facial likeness to the great Bonaparte. Mr. Delmas does not often wear a silk hat, but the photographer caught him with one Sunday. It is likely that Delmas is the most conspicuous man in America, and will be while the Thaw trial lasts.

of the letters, Thaw sat engaged in lively conversation with Mr. Peabody, of his counsel. He seemed exceptionally bright, smiling from time to time, nodding his head in emphasis now and then. After conversing with Mr. Peabody for about fifteen minutes Thaw turned and talked with Dr. Evans, of his alienists. Dr. Evans always sits at the defendant's right, and the two seem to have established a warm friendship. Thaw's manner toward Dr. Evans is always cordial.

Women Not Admitted.

A new rule by Justice Fitzgerald, barring from the courtroom all women not engaged in active newspaper work, went into effect to-day. Many of those who, bedecked in gay costumes, had occupied front seats heretofore, were on hand this morning, but to no avail. The court officers had direct orders this time, and they obeyed them explicitly. As a result there were empty benches in the courtroom all day.

into the taking of expert testimony as to Thaw's insanity by his objections to Mrs. Thaw's testimony, Mr. Jerome next proceeded to block the testimony of Dr. Wagner as to the results of his visits to the defendant in the Tombs and his tests as to the latter's mental condition.

Dr. Wagner was not allowed to go into the conversation he had had with the defendant, nor the conclusions he had reached from these conversations. He was confined by Mr. Jerome's continuous cascade of objections to stating what he observed and declared his observations were so closely interlarded with his questioning of the defendant that he did not know if he could separate them.

A long argument over the point resulted in Mr. Delmas withdrawing any further questions as to the tests, contenting himself with asking Dr. Wagner to give his opinion of the defendant's mental condition. The question was almost record-breaking in length—a comprehensive resume of the case, including Mrs. Thaw's personal narrative.

Examine Thaw's Letters.

As a basis for a portion of his hypothetical question, Mr. Delmas asked Dr. Wagner all the letters written by Harry K. Thaw which have admitted in evidence.

It was deemed best by both Mr. Delmas and Mr. Jerome that the witness should refresh his memory by reading all the letters.

Dr. Wagner's examination of the letters required more than a half-hour.

"Have you examined these letters with a view to their tendency to show the mental condition of the author?" asked Mr. Delmas.

"I have."

Far-Reaching Question.

Mr. Delmas then proceeded with his hypothetical question, "If you were a physician, doctor," he began, "that the author of these letters on June 23rd last was in his thirty-sixth or thirty-seventh year; that one of his uncles was insane; that when he himself was a child he had suffered from the usual children's diseases, including St. Vitus dance; that he was always of a nervous temperament; that he slept badly and often required the attention of two nurses; that in 1901 he met a young woman of between sixteen and seventeen years of age, that he paid honorable court to her, and had gone to her mother, professing his love and his desire that the girl should become his wife; that in 1905, the young woman, having undergone a serious operation, the man went to her bedside, knelt and respectfully kissed her hand; that after her recovery he arranged to take her and her mother to Europe; that in Europe, during her period of debilitation, following the operation, he nursed her tenderly, carrying her to carriage and up all stairs in his arms; that in June 1902, he made formal offer of his hand to this young woman, his social position at that time being one of affluence, and his family holding a position both in this country and in Europe which might generally be termed enviable; that she declined his suit; and when pressed for a reason, informed him that when she was about sixteen years of age a certain man in New York introduced himself into her life in the guise of a benefactor, expressing the utmost solicitude for her welfare; that this New York man displayed before her childish fancy, she having been brought up in poverty, all the splendor of apartments, sumptuous in their fittings and furnishings, and after thus establishing himself in her fancy, he had persuaded the mother of the child, her only natural protector—the father being dead—to absent herself from New York and go on a visit to Pittsburg, her former home, promising to care for the child as though he were her father and protect her from all harm; that one day he invited her to his apartments, and there by means of drugs rendered her insensible and ravished her; that this revelation made to the young man who had offered his hand, plunged the author into the utmost grief, causing him to walk the floor in an agitated manner and exclaim, 'Oh, God! oh, God! that he remained a long time with the young woman bemoaning what had happened to her; that after their return from Europe the young man was told that the man who had ravished this girl had so blackened his character to the girl that she would no longer see him; that he heard the man had threatened his life; that during the period of his estrangement with the girl he wrote letters, which have been introduced in evidence, and in which you have read; that he persevered in his suit, through the intercession of friends, and finally, on April 4, 1906, married the girl; that upon the occasion of a subsequent visit to New York the man who had ravished the girl's honor sought by means that have been testified to, to re-establish communication with her."

Mr. Delmas continued to narrate the events leading up to the Madison Square Garden tragedy and asked Dr. Wagner to state his opinion as to the mental condition of the man who shot Stanford White.

Mr. Jerome at once was on his feet with many objections. He objected first on the ground that the question embodied several matters which he declared were not in issue. He said the evidence did not show that the wife of Thaw's uncles was insane, but that he was of unsound mind, and that Evelyn Thaw did not state that she was drugged, but that the wine tasted bitter, and that in two minutes at the outside she became unconscious. Both of those points were changed to agree with Mr. Jerome's demands.

He also objected to saying that White was attempting to renew relations with Mrs. Thaw. He said that this had not been shown in the evidence. Mrs. Thaw, however, declared that White had attempted to renew relations.

Touching this question, Mr. Delmas said that Mr. White's cab turned around and followed her on the second occasion that she saw him. Mr. Jerome produced the transcript of the testimony to show that both cabs were not going in the same direction, said Mr. Jerome, "nothing to show that Stanford White was not building a house in that street at that time."

After considerable argument the question was amended to conform with the testimony.

Did Not Know Wrong.

"Now, doctor," said Mr. Delmas, "considering the question as amended, what is your opinion as to whether the man who committed the act complained of knew it was right or wrong?"

"My opinion," replied Dr. Wagner, "is that he did not know the act was wrong."

"You base your opinion on the fact that he must have been suffering from such a defect of reason as to not know the act was wrong?"

"I believe his reason was so defective he did not believe the act was wrong," came the reply.

"That is all," said Mr. Delmas.
